Study. Proximity to Lac-Leamy would shrink new casino's gambling market

ALEX BOUTILIER
alex.boutilier@metronews.ca

A study commissioned by the Rideau Carleton Raceway (RCR) claims a new downtown casino would generate only $2.6 million more than an expanded raceway facility.

The study by Las Vegas-based Gaming Market Advisors, found total revenue from a downtown casino would be about one per cent more than an expanded raceway.

That conclusion is based on a number of assumptions — that a new casino would be near the Rideau Centre, that it would cost more to run, and that it would only have 1,850 slot machines and 50 table games.

"(The) region would now have two casinos within seven minutes of each other, (and) the overall market will shrink in comparison to scenario one where there are two casinos in completely different parts of the market area," the report reads.

RCR's report paints a very different picture than Ontario Lottery and Gaming's Rod Phillips, who told Ottawa's finance and economic development committee Wednesday night that, based on their modeling, a new casino would bring in 40 per cent more revenue.

The RCR has been a vocal opponent of the possibility of a new casino for the city, and several councillors have lined up behind it. On Tuesday evening, the finance committee passed a motion suggesting to OLG that the raceway should be included in the eventual shortlist of casino proponents.

Other groups, notably Caesar's Entertainment and the Bronson Group, have already begun lobbying efforts. And they're getting better meetings — lobbyists from Caesar's, including former Minister of National Defence David Pratt, met with several senior bureaucrats in Septem-

OLG, city reveal new agreement

Ontario Lottery and Gaming released the details of a new system for sharing gambling revenue Wednesday.

Under the old deal, Ottawa got five per cent of revenue from the first 450 slot machines at Rideau Carleton Raceway and two per cent of revenue on the other 800 machines. In 2011, that put $4.38 million in city coffers.

The new agreement isn't tied to machines; it depends on four stages of slot revenue. City treasurer Marian Simulik says that with the same number of slots, the new deal would have raked in $5.6 million last year.

 GRAHAM LANKTREE

An idea that had kids growing potatoes in an outdoor classroom at Heritage Academy has sprouted into a drive to bring a ton of the spuds to the Ottawa Food Bank for Thanksgiving.

"The food bank has a lot of canned and dried goods," said Derek Rhodenizer, vice-principal at the Heritage Academy of Learning Excellence. "We're trying to increase donations of fresh food. I think a ton of potatoes is realistic."

In May, Rhodenizer, who founded an outdoor classroom at the school to teach kids biology, had students plant potatoes. Then he gathered together used food-grade olive barrels to hand out to those interested in growing them at home.

"Me and my mom tried to grow some," said student Jennifer Slack, who was helping collect potatoes from the 60 barrels the school gave out. "It's great to see our school be part of something bigger. It's exciting to stick a potato in the ground and see eight come out."

Not only did the project teach students about how potatoes grow, Rhodenizer said, but they are now asking him to expand the program next year.

"The general assumption is that we don't have produce," said Jason Gray, community harvest co-ordinator at the Ottawa Food Bank. "We move about 57,000 pounds of produce annually. We would love to receive more. Getting people to contribute a little bit like this amounts to a whole lot."

Jennifer Slack, a student at the Heritage Academy of Learning Excellence, holds potatoes grown at the school and destined for the Ottawa Food Bank. GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

Alfredsson may not return if lockout lasts all season

Daniel Alfredsson speaks to reporters following a mental-health-awareness event at the Hampton Inn on Coventry Road on Wednesday. The Ottawa Senators team captain said he's OK with a lost 2012-13 season being his last.

Ottawa Senators team captain Daniel Alfredsson said he may not play with the Sens in the 2013-14 season if the lockout cancels this year.

"I'm just a small piece of the puzzle," he said of his team. "Even if this would turn out to be a whole season and I wouldn't play again, that's fine with me."

Speaking at the Royal Ottawa's Leaders for Mental Health Breakfast, Alfredsson said he's still training hard and is ready to go if a deal is struck in the lockout, now entering its 16th day.

an argument between team owners and the players over the sharing of revenue. The owners want to cut the players' share from 57 per cent to 46 per cent by 2017.

The league raked in record revenues of $3.3 billion US in the 2011-2012 season.

Team owners want to cap salaries at $58 million next year, but players propose a $70-million salary cap.

"If we end up playing 60 games, that's fine with me," Alfredsson said. "When the kids are at school, I'm in the gym."

"I went through a lockout last time and feel the same as I did then, even though I'm at a different part in my career," he said of the 2004-05 lockout that scrapped an entire season.

Desjourdy's report sheds light on sexual-assault trial

Defence. Police report says he cut prisoner's clothing to prevent suicide

JOE LOFARO

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

An Ottawa police sergeant accused of sexually assaulting a female prisoner in a cellblock cut off her top and bra with scissors "so that she would not hang herself," a court learned Wednesday.

Crown prosecutor Christopher Webb entered a police report as evidence in the sexual assault trial of Sgt. Steven Desjourdy. Desjourdy has pleaded not guilty.

The report, penned by Desjourdy, doesn't explain why he believed the woman would hang herself. It is unclear at this point in the trial if he will be called to testify.

In his report, Desjourdy said the woman was "struggling and yelling" before she was lodged into a cell.

"Just before being put in the cell (special constable) removed the cut clothing from her upper body (we were at the back, not looking at her breasts)," wrote Desjourdy. "She remained with her pants that were soiled with urine."

The officer who initially arrested the woman, Const. John Flores, testified in court Wednesday he did not know why the woman's clothes were cut, but said it might have been because Special Const. Melanie Morris had not finished her search.

The female prisoner mule-kicked Morris twice during the search and was grounded before Desjourdy went for the scissors.

Flores also testified he gave the woman, whose identity is protected by a publication ban, a chance to be let off with a warning the morning she was arrested after he spotted her at 5:38 a.m. on Rideau Street with an open beer bottle.

"I told her to go straight home," said Flores.

"Then she started to walk away and then came back to the cruiser."

That's when Flores said the woman became "verbally aggressive," with him and his partner.

He testified he thought the woman's reasoning was affected by alcohol and that she was a danger to herself and others.

During his interaction with the woman, he said he did not recall anyone saying anything about suicide in relation to her.

The trial continues Thursday.

Debt, tough job market make life a struggle: Youth

"My sister has a degree from the University of Ottawa and Vancouver Film School. She's 27 and still living at home for now to save money. She just wants a career. With $20,000 in debt, student loans are any young person's death." Jackie Charbonneau

Work experience

"There are barely any jobs in the field.... They say you need more experience, but how are you supposed to get it if they don't give you a try? All I can find are cleaning jobs."

Ashley Bray
Addictions-counselling graduate from Everest College

Half of job losses during the recession hit young Canadians, pushing a generation more than a decade behind when it comes to getting their careers on track, says a report released this week.

Students are saying it's spot on.

"Youth leave university or college with a debt burden and little job prospects," said Ian Bird, CEO of Community Foundations of Canada, which issued the Vital Signs 2012 study Tuesday.

"The primary trend that's most alarming is that there's a confluence of concerns for young people arriving all at the same time."

Bird went on to list the factors he thinks are creating conditions for a lost generation: that workers older than 55 are returning to or staying in jobs longer, that university graduates carry an average debt of $27,747, and that online connectivity leads to sedentary lifestyles and adverse effects on mental health.

Not everyone all smiles after rainy Harvest Noir

Pop-up picnic.

Organizer says rain-or-shine outdoor event is for the adventurous

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

Those who complained about shelling out $50 to attend the rain-soaked Harvest Noir outdoor picnic should think twice about going next year, the event's organizer says.

"It takes an adventurous soul. This kind of event is not going to be for everyone," said Greg Searle, who co-organized the pop-up picnic with his wife Samantha Biron. "People who are able to have a good time under those circumstances are the ones who will come back."

Some 17.5 millimetres of rain fell throughout the day of the picnic on Sunday, as temperatures reached a high of 12.5 C.

"I'm embarrassed to have dragged my friends out. It was all I could do to keep

A cheese plate turns soggy at Harvest Noir. CONTRIBUTED smiling and everyone in good spirits," said Crystallina Chiu, who was there with a table of her friends. "At the end, I was outvoted and my entire table left after the picnic. We were excited for this event for months. I wore a $400 dress and it was soaked."

After the picnic some 500 of the initial 1,500 picnickers left before a dance began at the National Arts Centre (NAC). Chiu and others said organizers should have had a backup plan that included tents or an alternate space.

"I think that there was no Plan B," said picnicker Alayna Wright. "On the website they say that in the event of inclement weather, they'll cancel the picnic portion."

Searle said Plan B was to accelerate the timetable of the picnic, which wrapped up 15 minutes early.

"The spirit of the event is not tents, no shelter," said Searle. "We had about 1,500 people out being fantastic sports. They pulled out their umbrellas and had a feast. There were a lot of smiles all around."

But Chiu said from what she saw, the people around her were not pleased. "We had cheese that was literally floating and washed our plates with rainwater."

Wright said the fact that 100 per cent of the proceeds go to Searle's charity — Bio-Regional North America, a Canadian non-profit — raises questions. "It brings up why you wouldn't spend more money on tents."

Searle said that expenses for the 18-piece orchestra and space at the NAC ran to about $40,000. He said he anticipated clearing about double his $8,000 in profit last year. "To rent tents would run to $10,000," he said.

Italian businessman protesting latest austerity measures atop basilica pulled inside by firefighters

Pope's documents found in butler's home: Vatican cops

Vatican police said Wednesday they found thousands of documents hidden inside the home of Pope Benedict XVI's former butler, including original documents signed by the Pope bearing indications they should be destroyed.

The police officers testified in the trial of Paolo Gabriele, the pope's once-trusted butler who faces four years in prison if convicted of aggravated theft for allegedly stealing papal documents and leaking them.

Prosecutors have said Gabriele, a devout 46-year-old father of three, confessed to leaking copies of the documents to journalist Gianluigi Nuzzi because he wanted to expose the "evil and corruption" in the church to help put it back on the right path.

The documents have ignited an uproar, for they revealed infighting and alleged corruption in the Vatican as the Pope grows older and more frail. The security breach has been one of the most damaging scandals of Benedict's seven-year papacy.

Gabriele said he stood by his confession and acknowledged he betrayed the Pope's trust, but he nevertheless pleaded innocent to the charge of aggravated theft.

Obama hoped to bring bin Laden to trial: New book

The Finish. Revelation could provide political fodder for Republicans as election approaches

A new book says President Barack Obama hoped to put Osama bin Laden on trial, showing the U.S. commitment to due process under law, if the al-Qaida leader had surrendered during a U.S. raid in Pakistan last year.

In The Finish, journalist Mark Bowden quotes the president as saying he thought he would be in a strong political position to argue in favour of giving bin Laden the full rights of a criminal defendant if bin Laden went on trial for masterminding the Sept. 11 attacks.

But Bowden, who also wrote Black Hawk Down, about the 1993 battle in Somalia in which 18 U.S. soldiers were killed, says

Obama expected bin Laden to go down fighting. A team of navy commandos, known as SEALs, raided bin Laden's compound in Abbottabad, Pakistan, in May 2011 and killed him.

The Finish is due to come out Oct. 16, a few weeks before the presidential election. The revelation that Obama hoped to capture bin Laden may provide political fodder for Republicans who have criticized the Obama administration for trying to bring terror suspects from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to trials in U.S. courts.

"Frankly, my belief was if we had captured him, that I would be in a pretty strong position, politically, here, to argue that displaying due process and rule of law would be our best weapon against al-Qaida, in preventing him from appearing as a martyr," Obama is quoted saying in an interview with Bowden. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pussy Riot. Minister defends 2-year sentence

Russia's justice minister is defending a two-year prison sentence handed down to members of rock band Pussy Riot, rebuffing European Union concerns that the punishment was excessive.

Alexander Konovalov says the sentence given to the three band members for hooliganism after they performed a "punk prayer" against President Vladimir Putin at Moscow's main cathedral is a "very subjective matter."

Konovalov was responding Wednesday to EU Home Affairs Commissioner Cecilia Malmstrom, who repeated EU concerns that the sentence was disproportionate to a "peaceful expression of protest," even though it may have offended many people.

Konovalov urged the EU to engage Russian authorities in dialogue instead of "coming up with a politicized assessment based on unverified information." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Morocco. Safe-abortion boat could be turned away

Moroccan authorities said Wednesday that a Dutch ship promoting legal abortions set to dock in Morocco is operating outside the law and could possibly be stopped before arriving at a northern Mediterranean port.

The Dutch ship, which promotes safe and legal abortions worldwide, was invited by a Moroccan women's group to raise awareness in the struggle to legalize abortions, which are not allowed in the conservative Muslim country. It is scheduled to arrive at the port of Smir on Thursday.

It would be the "Women on Waves" boat's first landfall in a Muslim country.

"We haven't been informed about the arrival of this boat from a security standpoint. It's a boat we don't know or why it is coming, so I don't see what we can do," Minister of Interior Mohend Laenser told The Associated Press.

It's wrong to divide Canada over resources: Trudeau

Liberal leadership race.

Younger Trudeau appears to distance himself from father in Alberta over national energy program

Justin Trudeau appeared to distance himself from his famous father as he made Alberta the first stop on his campaign to take over the federal Liberal party.

Trudeau chose Calgary, home to the country's energy-company boardrooms, to say he would never use the wealth of the West to gain votes elsewhere. He said it is wrong to divide Canadians over natural resources.

It's a particularly sensitive issue in a province where resentment still burns over the introduction of the national energy program in the 1980s by Pierre Trudeau, who was prime minister at the time. That was seen as a grab of Alberta's natural-resource wealth to keep prices artificially low for the rest of the country.

Quoted

"It is time to be more honest with ourselves. There is not a country in the world that would find 170 billion barrels of oil and leave it in the ground."

Justin Trudeau

"It is wrong to use our natural wealth to divide Canadians against one another," he said. "It was the wrong way to govern Canada in the past. It is wrong today. And it will be wrong in the future."

He didn't mention his father by name during his speech. But later he told reporters he is proud of him and the values for which he stood.

"But I am here to try and challenge a whole new set of realities and to try to bring a whole new generation of Canadians forward to the 21st century." He pointed out that he had "nothing to do with the national energy program. I was 10 years old."

Tainted beef. MPs hold emergency debate on widening product recall

Members of Parliament lingered into the evening Wednesday for an emergency debate about what's being billed as one of the largest food recalls in Canadian history.

Speaker Andrew Scheer agreed to a call by NDP and Liberal MPs for a special debate on the massive recall of tainted beef from an Alberta packing plant operated by XL Foods.

The government's critics wasted no time in pointing the finger of blame directly at the Conservatives, who have insisted in recent days that forthcoming new legislation will help to buttress Canadian food safety measures.

Liberal MP Frank Valeriote

called on the government to order a third-party audit of the resources the Canadian Food Inspection Agency needs to do its job.

"We have some of the finest inspectors in the world, but they are hamstrung by a lack of resources, leaving them incapable of performing necessary functions of their jobs," he said.

Earlier in the day, CFIA admitted there was a delay getting information on tainted meat from the XL plant. E. coli was first detected at the plant on Sept. 4, but it wasn't until 12 days later that CFIA began recalling some of its beef products.

Lawsuit alleges profit over safety

A lawsuit alleges the Alberta company involved in a massive national beef recall knew it had poor quality-control systems and that it put profits above the safety of consumers.

The statement of claim against XL Foods Inc. has not been proven in court and a judge will determine if it may proceed as a class-action lawsuit.

Nuclear sanctions partly to blame for currency plunge

Iran. Rial hits a record low of 35,500 against the U.S. dollar in street trading on Tuesday

Police threatened merchants who closed their shops in Tehran's main bazaar and launched crackdowns on sidewalk money changers on Wednesday as part of a push to halt the plunge of Iran's currency, which has shed more than a third its value in less than a week.

The measures underscore a concern by officials facing one of the most destabilizing scenarios, which has been partly blamed on the fallout from Western sanctions over Tehran's nuclear program.

Public anger has mounted over a combination of a falling currency and rising prices, which have put staples like chicken and lamb out of reach of many low-income Iranians.

The shrinking rial also has rekindled bitter political feuds between President Ahmadinejad and his rivals, who claim the crisis has also been fed by misguided monetary policies.

Iran's rial hit a record low of 35,500 against the U.S. dollar Tuesday in the widely followed street-trading rate. It was about 24,000 a week ago and 10,000 to $1 U.S. in 2011.

The Dark Knight strikes, again. Man wearing Batman outfit arrested

Police say they arrested a man after he showed up at a crime scene wearing a Batman outfit because he wouldn't leave them alone.

"He wouldn't clear the scene, and we had a canine out there, and he kept screwing up the scent," Sgt. Jeff Gorno of the Michigan state police told the Petoskey News-Review.

Mark Wayne Williams, 33, was charged in Saturday's incident with resisting and obstructing police in an investigation. Williams also was arrested last year after police received a report of a man dressed as Batman on the roof of a local business.

Dying language

Last native speaker dies at 92

In a remote fishing town on the tip of Scotland's Black Isle, the last native speaker of the Cromarty dialect has died, taking with him another little piece of the English linguistic mosaic.

Scottish academics said Wednesday that Bobby

Hogg, who passed away last week at age 92, was the last person fluent in the dialect once common in the seaside town of Cromarty, about 280 kilometres north of Scottish capital Edinburgh. The Biblically-influenced speech — complete with "thee" and "thou" — is one of many fading dialects that have been snuffed out across the British Isles.

Stolen batch of maple syrup gets police escort

Canada's sweet, gooey gold. A large quantity of stolen maple syrup has been brought back from New Brunswick

In many places, gold shipments will get their own police escort. In others, nuclear materials might get that same security treatment.

But what about Canada, eh?

In this country, the protected material can be maple syrup. A convoy of 16 trailer-loads of the sweet stuff on Wednesday undertook an interprovincial journey — accompanied by a squad of provincial police cars.

The shipment stems from an investigation into a stolen haul from a Quebec warehouse and the sticky substance is on its way back home from neighbouring New Brunswick.

Yvon Poitras, the general manager of the New Brunswick Maple Syrup Association, says the goods came from a New Brunswick exporter.

"(The convoy's) under police protection going somewhere in Quebec," he said.

"We've been asked not to talk because it's under investigation."

Police confirm that an investigation is underway, but are keeping mum. They will only say that a search was carried out on Sept. 26 at a company alongside a highway in Kedgwick, N.B.

In August, the Quebec Federation of Maple Syrup Producers reported the theft of a massive quantity from the warehouse in St-Louis-de-Blandford. The missing stock was discovered during a routine inventory check.

The burglarized warehouse held more than 4.5 million kilograms of maple syrup, valued at over $30 million. The exact amount of the theft was not disclosed.

Serbia bans Gay Pride parade, again

Police cite potential for violence. Decision follows request by Orthodox Church leaders, who call it a 'parade of shame'

Serbia's police on Wednesday banned a gay-pride march in Belgrade, citing security concerns, but also complying with a request from Serbia's Christian Orthodox church.

Police said they were banning the march planned for Saturday because they feared a repeat of the violence in 2010, when right-wing groups attacked a gay-pride event in Belgrade. That triggered daylong clashes with the police that left more than 100 people injured.

Last year's march also was banned by authorities.

The current ban was announced after Patriarch Irinej, the head of Serbia's Christian Orthodox church, urged the government to prevent Saturday's march. In a statement, he said such a "parade of shame" would cast a "moral shadow" on Serbia — a conservative Balkan country whose gay population has faced threats and harassment.

Allowing a gay-pride march this year had been regarded by some as a test of Serbia's pledge to respect human rights as it seeks European Union membership. That was clear in the reaction of European Parliament official Jelko Kacin, who called the ban a "political decision that questions the rule of law in Serbia."

Secretary-General Thorbjørn Jagland of the Council of Europe, the continent's main human-rights body, said he was "surprised and disappointed" that the pride event has been banned again.

WikiLeaks bail jump

Assange allies want their cash

Supporters of Julian Assange are waiting to find out if they will lose the £140,000 ($222,000) they put up in bail-surety money because the WikiLeaks founder has sought political asylum in Ecuador's Embassy in London.

Assange, 41, has been holed up in the embassy since June 19 as part of his bid to avoid extradition to Sweden, where he faces questioning over sex-crimes allegations.

By seeking refuge in a foreign embassy, Assange breached his British bail conditions.

Bosnian conflict

War-crimes suspects freed

Bosnia's war-crimes court has acquitted two former Bosnian Serb policemen accused of participating in the 1995 Srebrenica massacre.

The court said Wednesday that prosecutors failed to prove Dragan Nesovic and Zoran Ilic committed crimes against humanity by rounding up Muslim men for execution and then firing into the piles of bodies to make sure there were no survivors.

Judges concluded that witness statements were contradictory and the credibility of some of them was doubtful.

Chained boy: Car found, man hunted

Mysterious case.

Remote logging road in northern Ontario offers up a clue in investigation that began in Nova Scotia

For the Mounties, the breakthrough came on a remote logging road.

The RCMP say a car linked to a man wanted in the alleged chained confinement of a 16-year-old boy in Nova Scotia has been found abandoned on the logging road in northern Ontario.

And the Mounties say the search continues for Wayne

Alan Cunningham.

He faces charges of sexual assault and forcible confinement after a boy alleged he was held captive by two men.

The Mounties previously said Cunningham, 31, could be headed to Calgary in a 2003 Hyundai Elantra with a Nova Scotia licence plate.

Now they say his whereabouts are unknown.

They say the Ontario Provincial Police discovered the car about 19 kilometres off the highway in Greenstone, about 250 kilometres northeast of Thunder Bay.

Cunningham's co-accused, David James Leblanc, was arrested Sunday on a Greenstone road after officers received a report of a man

Grim tale

Court documents say a 16-year-old boy told the RCMP he was sleeping on a Halifax street when he woke up in a van, was taken to a home and sexually assaulted over several days.

wandering with no shoes and light clothing in near-freezing temperatures.

The RCMP say the 47-year-old man remains in hospital under police custody, but cannot yet be returned to Nova Scotia for medical reasons.

Police say he was suffering from exposure when he was arrested.

Police have also released two more photos of Cunningham.

One head shot, taken in 2006, shows a long-haired Cunningham, police say.

The second photo, which police say was taken more recently, is said to show Cunningham sitting in a vehicle with short, spiky hair and a piercing in his left eyebrow.

The investigation began after a woman said a teenager arrived at her doorstep in the Lunenburg County community of Upper Chelsea, about 130 kilometres southwest of Halifax.

The boy had bare feet and was chained at his wrists and ankles, the woman said.

Where spirit meets action

Double vision. A super team of young activists and senior public figures are aiming at nothing less than saving the world

 ELISABETH BRAW
Metro World News in London

It's like Space Cowboys in the real world, with aging heroes returning to save the Earth.

Meet the Elders, a group of senior public figures whose stated purpose is to work, with "an independent voice, not bound by the interests of any nation, government or institution," for peace and human rights.

That mission can be controversial, as the Elders insist on listening to all sides in a conflict and speaking "difficult truths." Indeed, while Nelson Mandela's wife, Graca Machel, promotes an end to child marriage, former U.S. president Jimmy Carter and Mary Robinson, former president of Ireland, have visited North Korea to broker a peace deal with South Korea.

But when Mandela inspired Virgin Mobile founder Sir Richard Branson to help him launch a network of distinguished politicians, the legendary South African was almost 90. Branson named the new group the Elders. And now they're adding a youth division: The Youngers.

"The major barrier young people have is a lack of belief in youth held by those in power. They feel they have the monopoly of knowledge," says Esther Agbarakwe, a 28-year-old Younger from Nigeria. "There are emerging global civil-society networks working on sustainability that create greater pressure from the bottom up," adds Marvin Nala, 23, a Chinese Younger.

More than mentoring, what young leaders need most is support and a listening ear, says Katy Cronin, chief operating officer of The Elders. "Elders give The Youngers recognition. They're very talented young people, but they often feel that people don't listen. The Elders listen to them and give them confidence."

The Elders now include Archbishop Desmond Tutu and former world leaders such as Carter and Brazil's Fernando Cardoso. Tutu serves as the group's chairman, while Mandela has retired.

"My fellow Elders and I often travel to places of deep unrest and suffering, but we always find wonderfully bright, inspiring young people who fill us with hope,"

Tutu says. "Five years ago, when he founded the Elders, Nelson Mandela told us to reach out to the youth and that is precisely why — young people everywhere need to be assured of their incredible power. In turn, they can give us oldies some of their energy!"

The Elders have helped negotiate between the Koreas, in the Middle East, Cote d'Ivoire, Sri Lanka and Sudan. Elder statesman Lakhdar Brahimi of Algeria has just been appointed UN peace envoy to Syria.

"The Elders demonstrated their faith in young people and told the world that youth matters," Agbarakwe says.

Esther Agbarakwe of Nigeria, also known as "Esther Climate," has travelled all over Africa leading environmental initiatives, and has served as the continent's co-ordinator for the UN Commission on Sustainable Development.

As a Younger, she has drawn inspiration from Elders Mary Robinson and Archbishop Desmond Tutu. "I was really honoured to be involved and have the influence to make changes," she says. Agbarakwe feels development has been held back by the "extreme politics and corruption" of African leaders.

"My greatest ambition is to support development that leads to environmentally sustainable growth in Nigeria, lifting people out of poverty and empowering them to hold government accountable."

Case study. 'Youth have enormous power'

A volunteer litter-picker at the age of 10, Younger Martin Nala has devoted himself to grassroots activism on issues ranging from HIV to sustainability. He led a youth team to the Rio+20 summit.

"The result of Rio+20 is, for sure, depressing regarding nations' co-operation and international regime-building. But on the other side, I saw more energy from grassroots," he says.

Nala is determined to bring sustainability to his homeland of China and believes young leaders will make a difference.

"Youth brought up in cities may not be aware of how serious the problems are at this very moment," he says, pointing to the issue of air quality as an example. "If they see it, they have enormous power to change it."

Screw fashion as usual. The new label Maiyet

Fashion. Saving lives. The two can be polar opposites, but upscale label Maiyet hopes you fall in love with their designs first, then continue to purchase them because of their mission to help local artisans sustain their own businesses.

"What we don't do is produce pity products," co-founder Paul van Zyl explains to Metro. "We design products that people will wear regardless of the cause."

Maiyet scouts rare and unique artisanal items from around the world — like hand-woven cloth from Varanasi, India and hand-carved bone from Kenya — to use in their products. Then they use part of their profits to fund training programs to educate craftsmen on how to make better-quality products, and how to use their business to provide a stable source of income for their communities.

They also front the money to produce the goods so artisans don't have to be stuck in high-interest loans. All of that is on top of making sure that people get paid fair wages.

Quoted

"We design products that people will wear regardless of the cause."

Paul van Zyl, Maiyet co-founder

Van Zyl's background doesn't exactly scream Carrie Bradshaw: He is the former executive secretary of South Africa's post-apartheid Truth and Reconciliation Commission and he never really worked in the fashion industry.

What drew him to the project was the idea that people don't have to choose between doing well in business and doing good for the world. Van Zyl says the economic crisis has made people realize that there must be a better way to run their companies, and he believes that there is a way for moral markets to exist.

"We believe in trade and aid, not trade versus aid," he explained. "We want these companies to be small and sustainable and to make beautiful products." METRO WORLD NEWS

Canadians hopping the border for cheap flights

A new report finds that a soaring number of jet-setting Canadians are border-hopping to catch cheaper flights.

The Conference Board of Canada report, issued Wednesday, said that about five million Canadians now cross the U.S. border by land every year to fly out of American airports.

Higher airfares, fees and taxes in Canada, as well as differences in wages, aircraft prices and industry productivity makes it 30 per cent cheaper to fly out of the U.S. The Conference Board says fees and taxes make up about 40 per cent of the cost of a ticket in Canada.

The report suggests that while other factors are beyond government control, small reductions in the airfare differential could lead to traffic gains for Canadian airports and carriers. It estimates that changes to Canadian policies alone could bring more than two million passengers a year back to Canadian airports.

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said Wednesday that Ottawa is "concerned" about the issue and that federal Transport Minister Denis Lebel "has been working on a consultation project with the airlines, with the airport authorities in Canada to try to see what we can accomplish."

The Khan Academy

With 186 million views — more than Justin Bieber — the latest viral YouTube smash features ... school lessons about math, computer science and the Greek debt crisis? Yup, thanks to Salman Khan.

In 2004, Khan was a hedge-fund manager tutoring his long-distance cousins with web videos. "They told me they preferred me on YouTube than in person," is Khan's catchphrase, a self-deprecating remark that's the key to his charm. The idea snowballed.

Eight years later, Khan Academy offers a combination of tutorial videos and an online classroom for the community to talk through their questions. The courses, which range from algebra to art history, are offered 24-hours a day to anyone. METRO WORLD NEWS

Screw soccer as usual. The homeless World Cup

It started with a chat between colleagues Mel Young and Harald Schmied in a Cape Town bar, discussing ways to bring attention to homelessness.

"Soccer is the 'universal language' that brings people together, wherever they are," says Young. "It is cheap and easy to organize and great fun for everyone — of all ages and abilities. It is also a team game, and is good for health and fitness. Soccer can have a huge impact on people but all sports have the power to change people's lives."

Today, their Homeless World Cup helps the homeless, people who are struggling with drug and alcohol addiction and those with HIV-AIDS. All participate in the annual tournament, which will take place in Mexico City Oct. 6 through 14 this year. METRO WORLD NEWS

FANCY RESTAURANTS? STICK A FORK IN ME, I'M DONE

HE SAYS...

John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

So I was at a fancy restaurant recently, which, given my lack of kitchen skills, is a bit like Patrick Stewart at a hair salon or Gandhi going out to play paintball. A lot of culinarians like me eat at restaurants, but rarely has the contrast been this extreme.

On the one hand, you had me: The worst cook in the world, topping out in creativity with my piece de resistance bacon and eggs (now with toast).

On the other, you had the restaurant: Geranium, an establishment in Copenhagen overseen by the best chef in the world.

Geranium is a Michelin-starred restaurant, so that guy made of tires likes it, and the "best chef" label comes thanks to the Bocuse d'Or, a world cooking contest revered by chefs because it's the only one ever created that doesn't involve Gordon Ramsay.

I felt so out-of-place that I was nervous when I arrived.

Understand that my childhood eating experiences were centred around meals like soggy fish sticks and Grade "Needs Remedial Help" beef.

I eat at lots of restaurants now, it's true, but I still felt like there was potential for embarrassment at such a classy joint. Maybe I'd do the wrong thing and everybody would freeze.

"Gasp! He's using the dessert fork for the appetizer!"

"My God. Toss him?"

"No. But let's change the meal to a bowl of Kraft Dinner and a pat on the head."

I needn't have worried. The first good sign was that there was no dress code. Given my hiking boots and jeans I assumed they'd say, "Good evening sir, the loading doors are out back. We fill the dumpster at about 11:15."

Instead, they led me to my table and were very patient with me as they explained each of the 15 courses.

Server: Did you enjoy your emmer and spelt, sir?

Me: Maybe?

Server: You're doing fine, sir.

Me: I think I ate my napkin.

Server: Very good.

If I had eaten my napkin, you can bet they would have come running with a new one. That was a perk I learned quickly: Finish a drink, they refill it. Done with a fork, here comes a new fork. I was alone, but if I had a date with me I might have knocked her from her chair just to see if they'd immediately plunk down a new one.

So the service was fantastic, and the food was great, too.

I came away inspired and planned to change my personal cooking habits. From now on, whenever I eat a strip of bacon I will immediately replace it with another strip of bacon and so on in that fashion. The Bocuse d'Or is mine.

In order to climb the ranks in the restaurant biz — refill, refill, refill.

Body temperature is the key reason why crocs feast between long intervals.

"As crocodiles are cold-blooded creatures, they need sunlight to give them the energy they need for metabolism, in order to digest their prey items," crocodile specialist Shaun Foggett told Metro.

Chills for CHEO kicks off Thursday and runs through the end of October. CONTRIBUTED/CHILLS FOR CHEO

From the front porch to massive annual fundraiser

Chills for CHEO. What started as a fun, spooky way to raise funds for a children's hospital has morphed into a professional production

BACKSTAGE PASS
Jen Traplin
ottawa.metronews.ca

Chills for CHEO started as a small, haunted porch 10 years ago.

Now, with a much bigger venue and extended hours, it has grown into a massive annual fundraiser for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario (CHEO).

Inspired by a trip to some of the famed haunted houses in Niagara Falls, Chills for CHEO and Funhaven Family Fun Centre founder Dave Ellis turned his front porch into a pseudo haunted house in 2002.

After a positive response from friends and neighbours, he contacted CHEO to set up a partnership and make his haunted house an annual charitable event.

Funhaven events and program manager Danielle Vicha says the event just snowballed.

"They opened it for a weekend and raised $600.

The year after, they raised more than $2,000 and then they grew to a garage and raised more and more money every year after."

Last year, Chills for CHEO raised more than $61,000 when it took over a three-car garage and the front of a house.

But, Vicha says, because of the popularity of the event (close to 10,000 visitors last year alone) and the resulting traffic problems in the small, residential neighbourhood, Ellis opened Funhaven (1050 Baxter Rd.), a family-friendly entertainment centre with more than enough space and parking to host events like Chills for CHEO.

This year, with the upgraded venue and extended hours, Chills for CHEO is hoping to raise $100,000.

For the older crowd, Chills for CHEO offers the spooky Crypt of Torment, a 3,000 square-foot house of horrors full of top-notch effects.

"Dave really looks for the best to be able to provide that level of top-quality entertainment so people are scared. It's a really high production haunted house and it's a lot of work — it's a yearlong planning process to do Chills for CHEO for one month," explains Vicha.

For kids, there is a more tame haunted experience, the Magic Manor.

Details

Admission is $10 per person for the Crypt of Torment. Adult Haunt and $5 per child for the Magic Manor Children's Haunt. One hundred per cent of net proceeds will go directly to CHEO. For hours, more info or to volunteer, go to chillsforcheo.com.

"It's more of a Scooby Doo mystery adventure so the kids are going to help Scooby and the gang figure out a mystery and there'll be a dance party after," Vicha says.

Bringing soul music to modern ears

R&B singer. New album breaking traditions of the genre with a broad range of influences and musical sensibilities

G. VALENTINO

Metro World News

R&B singer Miguel doesn't see himself as your everyday soul man. And with his iPod going from David Bowie to Prince to Queen to Kanye West to Diane Warren, he might be right. His latest album, Kaleidoscope Dream, hits stores this week and on this sophomore release, he definitely paints outside the lines, something which he says is within the traditions of R&B.

"I've never been a traditional artist because my influences span a broad range of music and sensibilities," he says. "The moment I started to incorporate my honest perspective into my music, all of these influences made their way into the sound and delivery of the art. R&B really influenced and inspired genres that are thriving today, including rock and hip-hop. It will always be soul at the core of it because that's who I am."

As an R&B singer, Miguel makes the music that is the backdrop for painting many a romantic canvas. However, when it's his time to play Picasso, his own songs aren't at the top of the playlist.

His new album feels like a jam session between Coldplay and Prince; a formula that conventional wisdom says the R&B crowd would reject. But conventional wisdom would be wrong. And the positive reception is welcomed as Miguel strives to give fans more.

"I'm excited that people are open to the risks," he says.

"I want people to leave with something they will remember forever. I want them to say, 'I remember when I was 19 and I took this girl to this Miguel concert.' I do my best to give myself to the moment so everyone can lower their guard and let the music in."

Morrissey. There will be no Smiths reunion at Glastonbury, or anywhere, ever

Following a flow of web rumours that began on Monday with the website Holy Moly, Morrissey confirmed with Metro what many Smiths fans already guessed: There will be no Smiths reunion at the Glastonbury festival in 2013. Or ever.

Throughout the course of an email interview, Morrissey discussed his upcoming autobiography.

We asked if in the book he addresses the beginning of his career in a way that fans might finally stop asking him when The Smiths will get back together. To this, he responded simply.

"If people continue to ask that question now — which they do, then they shall never stop, and they shall never stop because they don't understand the history of the band. Asking about a Smiths reformation is no different to driving into fog."

After the rumour surfaced, we had to apologetically ask him if he was being vague about the whole "fog" thing. With this, he cleared up all speculation.

"The Smiths are never getting back together — ever!"

Cesar Millan's techniques can help transition a farm dog into a city dog

Using confidence to overcome tension.

Planning, controlling a dog's instincts are key to making major life changes go smoothly

LIZ BROWN
Metro World News

Diving on top of my dog, April, to stop her from darting out onto a busy Toronto street in pursuit of a squirrel, left me with two bloody knees.

As I limped home, April jerking me in all directions in search of more prey, I knew I needed help.

My seven-year-old lab mix wasn't exactly adapting well to city living after spending the last year on my mom and dad's farm. Instead of spending her days prowling bucolic fields for rabbits and heading out on off-leash hikes with my family, she was now confined to a 350-square-foot bachelor apartment and spends at least eight hours alone each day. Aside from pulling me into oncoming traffic, she was also chewing bald patches in her coat. Short of sending her back to the farm, I didn't know what to do.

So when I limped into work last week after my April accident and my boss asked me if I wanted to interview Cesar Millan, who was in Toronto at the Newstalk 1010 studio to talk about his Trust Your Instincts Tour, I took the assignment. If there was anyone who could help me, it was the Dog Whisperer.

How do you help a dog make a major transition?

I t ' s
very i m -

Cesar Millan teaches Metro's Liz Brown a few tricks to help her Labrador-mix, April, get used to the big city. SUPPLIED portant we acknowledge their uncertainty. What we need to do is no touch, no talk, no eye contact with dogs that come from an area where it's not as hectic. We need to let them come to us and get to know us from an energy perspective. That's the best thing you can do to any dog to let it know that you're welcoming them into this chaotic life.

How do I get her to stop chasing squirrels?

That's the thing. On the farm you don't mind that, you know she's coming back. But at the same time, there's one thing I would teach farmers: If you're ever going to bring a dog to the city, you have to do the transition of it ahead. You can control instincts, hunters do it all the time. So you have to be able to control that desire. (He points to the harness I have on April) Number one, that harness is not going to help you. A harness is for pulling or tracking behaviour. A harness creates this (he stands up, darting back and forth and sniffs the air). And then the human is doing this (tenses up and looks afraid) "no, stop it, no, heel, no, over here, no, leave it." So the human is talking, but he's not creating calmness. The leash on the neck creates a calm state.

How can I stop her from chewing?

It's a physical reaction to the new life because the level of stress. It's the same thing as why people numb themselves more often in the city than on a farm, because on a farm you're tired from physical work and the relaxation. (April starts chewing as we're talking, Cesar gives her a swift touch). You just give her a touch to stop the chewing. A lot of people will grab the nose and the mouth and say "no don't lick yourself, stop it." That doesn't work because you're giving the dog tension when he's already tense. So first, I stop the behaviour, then let her go into a calm state.

How can I give her enough exercise?

You need rollerblades. You need to match her speed.

Um, I'm not you, I've seen you on TV with rollerblades and dogs. I can't do that.

(Laughs) I control the speed and direction. We know dogs don't want to walk, they want to run. Most people bring them from the house to the dog park and that's not healthy. What I'm saying is that "I'm going to take you out of the house and you and me, we're going to run." And the dog thinks "you were with me the whole time, telling me what not to do, what not to chase." You need to be in control. Sometimes I have 15 dogs when I'm rollerblading.

Have you ever had any crazy falls?

Of course. But I just get back up. I used to surf. The waves knock you down all kinds of times, but you get back out there. I don't have fear. I'm not afraid of dying, it's not in my space. When you fall, sometimes the dog still goes and he's still excited and then you're chasing him and it's "cluck, cluck, cluck" on your rollerblades and he thinks you're playing (laughs).

So what's the most important thing for dog owners to remember about transitions?

What we have to understand is number one, how do we feel about this transition. And be honest, you have to have some brutal honesty. "I'm nervous, I'm fearful, I'm anxious, I'm confused." It's OK, so now you know the problem is not the transition for the dog, but how your energy affects them.

I train people and rehabili-

dogs. I train people
to see themselves as energy.

So it doesn't matter what you want in life,
it matters how you
deal with life.

Classic rock sensibility of Nick Waterhouse

Say I wanna know.

Though young, this artist's style hails back to the '50s, and his songs hit the right chords today

Metro World News in New York

Rhythm and blues throwback Nick Waterhouse's Say I Wanna Know — in heavy primetime rotation courtesy of an Acura commercial — could easily be mistaken as a lost gem of the 1950s. The slinky, horn-driven track is attention-grabbing in its uniqueness circa 2012, just as Waterhouse's penchant for Brooks Brothers shirts and horn-rimmed glasses makes him an anomaly in an era when CEOs wear Chuck Taylors and hoodies to the office.

"I guess it's like white blood cells — all of a sudden, people really notice that you stick out like a sore thumb," the Los Angeles singer says of the soulful, rock-and-stomp sound found on his debut album, Time's All Gone, released in May. "I'm just doing the same thing that Muddy Waters was doing to blues or Van Morrison was doing to soul or Elvis Costello was doing to classic pop. (The influences) filter through you and turn out a slightly different way, but you definitely hear traces of everything in there."

Waterhouse says he has "kind of always been the thumb" — "I don't really know another way," he admits — ignoring music trends in favour of learning everything he could about early rock 'n' roll, soul and jazz. (A little punk rock was thrown in there too, courtesy of his dad's Black Flag cassettes.)

"I was always really curious. I was kind of a bookworm kid," the 26-year-old explains. "I liked reading and researching, but it wasn't research to me, it was just trying to quench the really deep desire to understand the world around me."

Everything began to make a little more sense with his mom's Van Morrison records playing in the background.

"I happened to feel more comfortable in music; I thought that music was the best way to relate to the world, so that was something that I ended up pursuing," says Waterhouse, who picked up trumpet in third grade before switching to guitar, which he continues to study and play today like a mad genius. "I could have maybe been really into something else, but I don't know," he adds. "This is just how it turned out."

On his terms

- Breaking free. After spending his early 20s in dead-end jobs and no-good relationships, Waterhouse turned to music and decided to record the album he wanted, on his terms. "I spent maybe a decade of my life being afraid of (pursuing what I really wanted)," he says.

Nick Waterhouse looks like Buddy Holly and his timeless music has hit the high notes with fans. HANDOUT

BEING BRANSON

THE MANY FACES OF THE VIRGIN MAGNATE

"Like a virgin, touched for the very first time." OK, it's a Madonna hit — but Sir Richard Branson comes to mind whenever you hear the word 'virgin.' Today, Branson's group, which runs some 400-plus companies in areas from mobile telephones and travel to music and health services, has more than 50,000 employees and annual revenues of around $21 billion US.

An iconoclast and adventurer, he is also deeply involved in non-business activities. Meet the other Bransons.

Disarmament: Let's get rid of that old junk and save money

Twenty years ago, the United States and Russia had thousands of nuclear weapons each.

The arsenal was called MAD, Mutually Assured Destruction, because they could easily annihilate the world many times over.

Today, the world's nuclear powers — the U.S., Russia, Britain, France, China and unofficial nuclear countries like India and Pakistan — still have hundreds of nuclear warheads.

That's enough to destroy the world many times over, and these weapons cost more than $1 billion US per decade.

As a result, Sir Richard Branson

He says

"Getting rid of nuclear weapons would save a lot of money and would solve many of the world's current deficit problems."

Sir Richard Branson

and some 300 world leaders have formed Global Zero, a global organization that advocates eliminating all the world's nuclear weapons.

"From a deterrent point of view, a country only needs 300 nuclear weapons," Branson told Metro earlier this year.

"Getting rid of nuclear weapons would save a lot of money and would solve many of the world's current deficit problems."

That's because maintaining the current nuclear stockpile is hugely expensive: The total cost to official and unofficial nuclear weapons states is expected to surpass $1 trillion US in the next decade, according to a study released by Global Zero.

Global Zero now also has some 400,000 members worldwide.

The Elders: working for peace

They're old — and cool.

When Nelson Mandela retired as President of South Africa, he wanted to use his stature to help solve conflicts around the world. He turned to Branson, who agreed to co-found and fund The Elders.

And The Elders are just that: older statesmen whose reputation allow them to crisscross the world and help solve disputes.

Mandela has since been joined by, among others, his old friend Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Graca Machel (Mandela's wife, who has a long political career in her native Mozambique) and former U.S. president Jimmy Carter.

The Elders fill a unique need in international politics as there's no institution or organization to which parties in conflict can turn.

The United Nations appoints envoys, but their missions are official and subject to pressures from UN member states. The Elders go in a private capacity.

And after missions to the Koreas, Middle East, Cyprus and Sri Lanka, The Elders have gained the top players' attention: Lakhdar Brahimi, one of The Elders, has just been appointed UN envoy to Syria.

Space exploration: The sky is no longer the limit

The state of New Mexico hosts a novel installation: a spaceport. Starting next year, space tourists willing to pay $200,000 US will be able to blast off from Spaceport America on a Virgin Galactic spacecraft. They'll spend two and a half hours in space and five minutes in weightlessness.

Branson says his flights are not frivolous — scientists will use the flights to carry out research on the ozone layer and NASA will rent space on flights.

His quote

growing chorus of voices in favour of softer drug legislation. Together with global leaders like Peruvian writer Mario Vargas Llosa and Ernesto Zedillo, former president of Mexico, he has formed the Global Commission on Drug Policy, which supports softer drug legislation.

Earlier this year, he testified to the British Parliament about the benefits of decriminalizing drug use, noting that countries like Portugal, which have decriminalized drug use, have seen a drop in both the number of drug addicts and the amount of drug-related crime.

Combating drugs, argues Branson and others, is a waste of time and money.

In fact, Branson joins a

Take a look at Mexico: between January and September last year, nearly 13,000 Mexicans were killed in drug-related violence. Since the country's government launched its war on drugs six years ago, nearly 48,000 people have been killed.

More than 50,000 troops and policemen are involved in the war against drugs — and that's just in Mexico.

Each year, some $13 billion US worth of drugs are smuggled from South America to the United States.

Combating drugs, argues Branson and others, is a waste of time and money.

Humanitarianism: It's up to businesses

OK, Branson surfs for fun, but he's also developed a knack for performing publicity stunts for good causes. A good cause, he argues, is often good business.

The boundaries between work and purpose are merging into one, he writes in his new book, Screw Business As Usual.

Branson names his concept

Capitalism 24902. (The name refers to the circumference of the globe.)

"Every single business person has responsibility for taking care of the people and the planet that make up our global village," he writes.

Curing disease may be the most daunting task facing the business person who wants to save the planet.

In Britain, Branson thought up the Virgin Health Bank, where parents can store their children's stem cells.

"These cells could be used to treat a wide range of other conditions, from heart disease to diabetes, in the future," he says.

Music: The king maker

In the '60s and '70s, he started selling records while running a magazine. Virgin's first release was Tubular Bells by Mike Oldfield (1973), a chart-topper that led to deals with the Sex Pistols, Culture Club and many more. He sold Virgin Records to EMI in 1992 for $1 billion US.

Environment: Deal with problems in an entrepreneurial spirit

Celebrities like to travel to Necker Island, Branson's island in the Virgin Islands.

But Branson has smaller friends on his island too — ring-tailed lemurs, an endangered species from Madagascar that Branson has imported to his island in an attempt to save the animals.

Branson has larger environmental ambitions, too, and not just out of a desire to save the Earth.

"We have to deal with environmental problems in an entrepreneurial spirit," he told Metro earlier this year.

"For example, Virgin's new aviation fuel uses waste from steel mills. Millions of jobs could be created worldwide by greening our cities. The environment would benefit, the cities would benefit, regular people would benefit, and it would stop money pouring out to the Middle East."

Branson has pledged to donate all his aviation businesses' profits to the development of alternative fuels.

His new Carbon War Room, in turn, encourages entrepreneurs and venture capitalists to come up with solutions to global warming.

Interview. Actress returns to Luc Besson film for Taken 2 and won't rule out another return despite Liam Neeson's objections

HEIDI PATALANO
Metro World News

She's been a Bond villain, X-Men's Jean Grey, an alluring transsexual on Nip/Tuck and soon, an evil witch in Hansel and Gretel: Witch Hunters. But right now, Dutch actress, model, writer and director Famke Janssen is focused on the reprisal of her role as Lenore, the long-suffering ex-wife of retired CIA operative Bryan Mills (Liam Neeson). While she and her daughter (played by Maggie Grace) survived the first round of Eastern European thugs in Luc Besson's Taken, the family of three faces a challenge of a different kind when vacationing in Istanbul for the film's sequel. Janssen spoke to Metro about the new film and how she broke a rib in the honor of a convincing action sequence.

The calm before the firestorm: Lenore (Famke Janssen) and Bryan Mills (Liam Neeson) enjoy their reunion in Istanbul. HANDOUT

You've remarked that the chaos of Istanbul enhanced your performance while filming Taken 2 there. Tell us more about what happened on set.

It's an absolutely breathtakingly beautiful place — very old but it also has one of the fastest growing economies so it's just outgrowing its own size and as a result there's more cars than the city knows what to do with, more people, more mopeds, more wild dogs, more motorcycles so it's just the mosques that are there with loud speakers on them and they are competing with one another in terms of the prayers that happen at numerous times during the day. It goes through these loud speakers and between all of that there's so much going on

Quote

"I've actually broken a rib twice. I broke my rib on GoldenEye and I broke a rib on Hansel and Gretel: Witch Hunters, the movie that comes out in January with Jeremy Renner."

Famke Janssen
Talking about her movie career.

that for a film shoot, it was a pretty chaotic experience but that really worked in my favour for the things that we were filming.

You shot at the Grand Bazaar. There are so many stray animals there.

Yeah, stray cats and dogs. I actually brought my own dog with me but they were not particularly fans of Licorice. It was a little bit sad but it's just a different culture. They don't keep dogs as pets in the way that we do.

Considering you've done a fair share of action films, including 1995 Bond film GoldenEye, what's one of the worst injuries that you've sustained while being on set out of any of your experiences?

I've actually broken a rib twice. I broke my rib on GoldenEye and I broke a rib on Hansel and Gretel: Witch Hunters, the movie that comes out in January with Jeremy Renner. So I've experienced some injuries. On Hansel and Gretel on top of everything, I had prosthetic make-up and I couldn't see because I had contacts that covered my whole eyes, so these things are always a little challenging.

What do you think would happen in a third Taken film?

Maybe they could do what I already suggested for Taken 2, which was that Liam (Neeson) was going to be taken and Maggie (Grace) and I would come and save him, but nobody liked that idea, apparently. I was joking by saying that of course, I don't know, Liam apparently is adamant about not wanting to do a Taken 3 and the director of our last movie, Olivier Megaton said that there was not going to be a Taken 3. I always say you never know.

Royal family fears more Middleton pictures to come

The British royal family's latest headache is apparently far from over, despite their victory in court against a French magazine that published topless photos of Kate Middleton.

There are apparently more photos — and possibly even a video — from their French vacation, and the latest also reportedly feature Prince William himself.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Arnold's new memoir full of some choice quotes

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Arnold Schwarzenegger's new memoir, Total Recall: My Unbelievably True Life Story, is 640 pages of straight-up boasting by the former bodybuilder-turned-movie-star-turned-governor.

Oh, his ego. It truly is unbelievable. Metro compiled the best, non-humblebrags from the book.

When he first started dating Maria:

"The outside world looked at our relationship in a simpminded way, as a juicy success story. Isn't it amazing that he wins Mr. Olympia and all these bodybuilding championships and then he gets this big movie contract and then gets a Kennedy as his girlfriend?"

When he first met his future mother-in-law, Eunice Kennedy:

"The first words I blurted out were, 'Your daughter has a great ass.' I always loved to say outrageous things to people."

On their rehearsal dinner:

"The toasts on Maria's side were about her

Arnold Schwarzenegger

and how great she is and how I'd benefit from being her husband. From my side it was the opposite. What a great guy and perfect human being I am, and how she'd benefit from that."

On justifying cheating on Maria before they were hitched:

"The fling with Brigitte Nielsen underlined what I already knew, I wanted Maria to be my wife."

His take on acting:

"Compared to being an action hero, it was a lot easier to be a comic star."

Amazing Arnold quotes taken out of context:

"Doing battle with a giant mechanical snake left me sore for a week."

"Jewish people have played such key roles in my life."

"There was something comical about seeing two black people accusing each other of being black. We laughed about it later."

Rihanna

Rihanna continues reconciliation with Chris Brown

It looks like Rihanna just can't keep away from Chris Brown — even if he is supposedly dating model Karrueche Tran.

The infamous exes were spotted at NYC nightclub The Griffin this week "hug- ging and kissing," a source tells Celebuzz.

"And they went to the back of the club alone together."

And Brown was spotted early the next morning sneaking out of the hotel where Rihanna is staying. The public displays of affection did not go over so well with Tran, apparently. "She felt the kiss was a public slap in the face," a source tells Us Weekly.

Getting out the glitz, glam and faux-fur at Paris Fashion Week

PHOTOS AND TEXT BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miu Miu Meow!

Miu Miu's spring-summer 2013 show in Paris had a wintery vibe. Despite the slightly off-kilter season, it was a slick display, with lashings of faux-fur on coats and stoles with dyed patterning at the brand often seen as Miuccia Prada's baby sister offshoot. It picked up nicely on this season's fascination with prints as contrasting explosions on loose skirt suits — sometimes resembling the negative of a photograph. As ever, it remained demure, but back features graced a few reversed tops.

Vuitton goes retro-chic

What do you get if you mix up the world's most famous checks and Paris' most famous stripes? The answer: Louis Vuitton, whose 1960s style spring-summer fashion show, in typically spectacular style, twinned the iconic checked Damier pattern with a set designed by artist Daniel Buren. Understatement is not a word in designer Marc Jacobs' vocabulary. So a collaboration with minimalist artist Buren — who made the famed striped columns in Paris' Palais Royal — might have raised eyebrows.

In fashion terms it was strong, with most of the 64 retro looks delivered in Mary-Quant-style.

Chanel perks up!

Fun was the healthy mantra that infiltrated Tuesday's Chanel show — a bright and diverse collection brimming with great new ideas. Silver bauble appliqués became buttons, A-line skirts were playfully short, colourful checks contrasted funkily with geometric flashes and feather fringing billowed exuberantly. One model in a crossing "C" swimsuit even carried a three-foot handbag. A bold new fashion idea was the reworked bolero jacket with curved shoulders, often spruced up with inflated arms.

Sarah Burton spars McQueen style

Fashion is body amour. At least it is for Sarah Burton, who tapped her fantastical imagination for Alexander McQueen to conjure up fashion week's most original show: mixing insect-like armoury with on-trend stiff bar jackets of the New Look, as well as 19th century crinoline.

If it sounds strange, it was — set to a backdrop of images of bees and honeycomb — with each model wearing a visor reminiscent at once of the 1950s wide hat, a cage and a beekeepers mask.

Valentino between the lines

"Suggestion is seduction," was the theme of Valentino's accomplished spring-summer 2013 show in Paris, which saw the storied Italian fashion house move subtly more sensual. Italian design duo Maria Grazia Chiuri and Pier Paolo Piccioli kept their strict, high collars and didn't bare too much flesh but eased their conservative designs, in razor-thin slits and cutouts.

New taste. Rock the Casbah with Spearhead's latest creation — Moroccan Brown Ale

For Metro

You have to hand it to the fine folks at the Spearhead Brewing Company as they take their "Beer Without Boundaries" philosophy to heart.

With last year's wildly successful launch of their flagship Hawaiian Style Pale Ale (they took an extremely popular style of beer — the hoppy West Coast IPA — and created a really cool spin on it by infusing it with pineapple juice to give it a unique balance and taste profile) they are back at it with their latest creation — Moroccan Brown Ale.

From near as I can tell, alcohol is not nearly as popular in this north African kingdom as it is here, and in researching the style it appears that Morocco's preference for brewing is more in the pilsner and lager vein. But in the pursuit of bringing new and interesting varieties to a thirsty and appreciative craft beer loving market, interpretation and imagination are far more important than recreating a pre-existing classic.

The influence, it appears, is not derived from beer itself, but rather Morocco's diverse and vibrant culture and their love of intriguing spices and culinary delights. Though it may seem slightly irreverent, a "beer without boundaries" mentality embraces pushing the envelope even further and challenging people's taste buds and imaginations — and who am I to

Oktoberfest weekend review

- With two extremely successful and very busy Oktoberfest events going on simultaneously last weekend, it was inspiring to see Ottawa embrace a thriving local craft beer scene. Particularly impressive was the amount of new beers to sample, with three "colla-beer-ations" introduced from Hogsback and stand in the way of progress.

A visit to Brothers Beer Bistro saw this new beer embraced on its cutting-edge menu, perfectly paired with classics like steak frites and incorporated into a turkey confit, aged Gouda and parsnip perogie appetizer, showcasing the Moroccan Brown Ale reduction in an accompanying broth with parsley and thick cut bacon that can only be described as spectacular.

Spearhead Moroccan Brown Ale (six per cent alcohol by volume, on tap only at select craft beer friendly locations) pours an opaque, hazy purple-hued "iced tea" colour with mocha head. Intoxicating aromas of sweet and fruity malts precede sweet flavours of raisins, figs, plum, burnt brown sugar and rich malts and a luxuriously smooth mouth feel — it's light to medium-bodied and naturally carbonated with a short, slightly dry finish.

Versatile and sessionable, it invites you to let go of your presumptions and experiment with your own food pairing possibilities. Boldly go where you may not have previously ventured.

To paraphrase a famous line from the movie Casablanca, "Pour it again, Sam."

Back Lane Café. Show-stopping pizza

EVERTS
For Metro

As soon as you enter Back Lane Café you feel like you are in a chic cottage or cosy country tea room. The rustic décor with playfully coloured window panes serving as wall art and mismatched antique chairs make it a charming place to hunker down in Hintonburg to the sounds of Edith Piaf.

Just like an old country general store, non-alcoholic spritzers from homemade bitters of rhubarb and raspberry syrup were ordered. Served in a tall glass, the rhubarb was very refreshing and not overly sweet, letting the natural fruitiness sing.

We started with a generously portioned "Peasant" lentil soup that was heavy on the cumin, but hearty with carrots and potatoes and dollop of luscious herb butter that elegantly combined the flavours. The frisée salad with walnut vinaigrette, toasted walnuts, and orange segments was crisp and fresh, but could have been considered entrée sized.

Renowned for their hand-tossed pizzas from two wood-fire ovens straight from France, the thin crust pizza was the showstopper and the incredible crust alone could have been eaten alone. We ordered the Cadet that had shrimp, figs, capicolla, hot peppers and fior di latte cheese. The mildness of the cheese tasted house-made and melted evenly with the perfectly simple Italian inspired tomato sauce. The caramelization of the figs complemented the capicolla and lightness of the shrimp beautifully.

Be sure to request that you want your pizza cut.

We finished with a delicious fresh yeast doughnut served hot from the fryer with decadent milk chocolate glaze, berries and a small scoop of homemade cherry ice cream.

Back Lane Café is located at 1087 Wellington St. W. For more, see backlanecafe.com.

"Remarkable."

"Outstanding."

"The best vintage ever."

These are the words of winemakers across Ontario when asked about this year's grape harvest. The ideal warm spring and the heat of the summer created near perfect conditions for grape growing. Grapes ripened seemingly overnight and winemakers began harvesting three to five weeks earlier than in previous years.

"We have not picked this early since 1971," said Roselyn Dyck, co-owner of Cattail Creek Winery in Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Teams of pickers began harvesting Cattail's vineyard on Aug. 23.

"By starting early, it creates a bit of chaos at the winery," Dyck laughed. "We are madly making room in the tanks for the new juice and readying the equipment on crush pad for the tonnes of grapes to come in."

Then there are the marketing commitments. Lailey Vineyards winemaker Derek Barnett said he had to cancel trips and winemakers' dinners because he needs to be at the winery managing the harvest.

"During September, we are usually doing a lot of watching and waiting. There is no waiting around this year. In fact, I cancelled all of the wine events that I committed to because I need to be at the winery."

What are they watching and waiting for? During the harvest season, winemakers are constantly walking through their vineyard, randomly picking grapes straight off the vines. With their instruments, they monitor and record the Brix levels (a measurement of natural sweetness in the grapes).

"It is remarkable," said Glenn Symons from Lighthall Vineyards in Prince Edward County. "The Pinot Noir is already up to 22 Brix."

Symons decided to leave the grapes on the vine a few

Sense of community

more days in hopes that they will ripen further still to result in even better, bigger, and juicier tastes that will show through in the wine.

This routine happens in every grape growing country in the world during harvest. Fifteen- to eighteen-hour days are often spent roaming the vineyard, picking grapes, operating the de-stemmer, monitoring the crushing machine, and pumping the juice into stainless steel tanks.

This year marks my sixth grape harvest. Yes, it is a bit hard on the back and knees, yet lending a hand to winemakers when they really need it gives me a great sense of community. In the vineyards, teams of pickers chat with each other through the vines about all kinds of things ... wine is woven into the chatter somehow. Gossip spreads like wild fire. While picking at Bergeron Estates Winery recently, chatter revolved around trips to the Maritimes, the pricing of wine, and interesting venues to host wine tasting events.

Meet many of these outstanding winemakers on Oct. 19, when more than 20 winemakers from Niagara's Twenty Valley wine region (a.k.a. Niagara Escarpment) are leaving their harvesting duties to come to Ottawa for their first-ever wine tasting event. It will be a great opportunity to learn first-hand more about what happens during grape harvest. And you may discover a new favourite Niagara wine. The best part is that when you find a wine you like, you can order it directly from the winemaker.

Tickets for this fun wine tasting are $50 for Metro Ottawa readers. Simply quote METRO at savvycompany.ca/events and you will get the best priced tickets in town.

Thanksgiving. Local flavour

SAMANTHA EVERETT
For Metro

Along with his brother, chef Simon Fraser is the co-owner of Table 40, a contemporary family-style dining restaurant that caters to large groups.

"Absolutely you can say that it was inspired by family meals like Thanksgiving," he said.

While he hasn't roasted any large turkeys recently, the whole menu at Fraser Café (where the kitchen is located) is based on local, seasonal produce.

Metro spoke to Fraser on how to have a local and sustainable Thanksgiving feast with your family.

For produce, "I would shop in the ByWard Market," he said and recommends Rochon Gardens and Hall's Apple Market. A large squash can become a roasted risotto or hearty soup. "There's endless possibilities," he said. He recently picked up some apple wood chips with which to smoke meats.

For meats, "Any meat that is grown or raised locally is the best choice," Fraser said.

Diners do not need just turkey. "People could be doing roast ham instead. There's a lot of heirloom pork breeders around at the Brewer's Farmers' market."

He also recommends The Elk Ranch in Kanata and said that preparing elk requires a similar technique that you would with beef.

A classic apple pie is the best way to end the dinner. "It starts with choosing the appropriate apple," he said. Avoid moist varieties like Lobo or McIntosh unless you are going to cook them before.

But for the most part he says the key is not to stress. "Cooking at home should always be relaxed because (if not) you don't cook as well."

A NEW AGE OF WHISKY

JOHN K. HALL BRINGING BACK CREATIVITY, PASSION

Canadian whisky is big news. Connoisseurs right around the world are singing its praises again, and Canada's whisky makers are doing something really smart to keep it that way. They are creating a whole new range of ultra-flavourful drams.

Leading the way is wine maker turned whisky maker, John K. Hall with his Forty Creek whiskies — whiskies that have won the world's most coveted awards. When Hall was asked what makes Forty Creek whiskies stand out from the crowd, he said: "Canadian whisky is a Canadian icon, just like maple syrup and hockey. I really want to bring back creativity and passion to our country's spirit. Whisky can be just as complex, perhaps more complex than wine. Bringing out the subtle aromas and taste characteristics is what makes whisky great."

As a first generation whisky maker,

CONTRIBUTED

Hall says that while he respects tradition, he is not bound by it. For example, unlike some distillers, he distills and ages each grain separately. "This approach allows me to highlight the flavour of each grain — nuttiness from the barley, fruitiness and spiciness from the rye and weight and body from the corn."

Hall's creativity doesn't stop there. He loves to experiment with different barrels for aging — sherry casks for Barrel Select, once-used bourbon barrels for Double Barrel Reserve, and even Canadian oak barrels for his Confederation

Oak. "I have worked with many types of oak barrels and every wood creates a distinctive taste expression."

Innovative and distinct whiskies such as these, along with Hall's new Copper Pot Reserve, fill a growing demand for decidedly flavourful whiskies. So put yesteryear behind you and join a new generation of whisky connoisseurs from around the world.

Why? Because they are discovering the treasure trove of rich new whiskies distilled for us right here in Canada.

Kids are often enthralled with the wild kingdom, so it's fun to do their rooms with animal-themed decor. And you can think beyond the standard of kitty-cat wall border or dino bedding; some of today's designs have a sophistication that will please style-minded parents, too.

Here's a bright idea: Lights!

Design options.

Update your space with some new lighting

CENTRE

Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

I've always said that the simplest way to change the look of a room is with a new paint colour and some new lighting.

A new light fixture not only adds an attractive accessory to a room but can instantly update a bedside, over a dining table or a hallway.

Add a new light fixture to update your space and then install some dimming switches; you'll be amazed at how different your place will look and feel.

Pendants

Caged styles can be used above kitchen islands, dining tables or in the centre of rooms (with high ceilings).

Graphic and modern tear-drop cage styles are all the rage and help add a chic industrial look.

Flush mounts

Sleek and more interesting are those cheap 1970-styled canopied fixtures. Classic X-patterns with gold or brass metal finishes are very popular right now.

Table

Look for traditional shapes with trend-setting colours. The neutral gourd style table lamp has been around for a long time and remains a staple in decorating.

Floor

Either very traditional or very modern; discrete yet trendy metal finishes keep the floor reading lamp in style.

The small banker style lights are great for scattering around reading chairs and the end of sofa areas. Interesting, useful and slightly retro in style; the 1960's floor lamps shine a bright light when used to fill a dark corner.

Vinegar

Eco-friendly cleaning

Is cleaning my home with vinegar enough to kill germs?

-Natalia of Vancouver

OF GREEN

Lindsay Coulter
green@metronews.ca

Yes. Acetic acid or white vinegar is a great disinfectant. It also acts as a deodorizer and cuts grease.

And you can tackle household bacteria like salmonella, E. coli and other "gram-negative" bacteria with vinegar.

Gram-negative bacteria can cause infections including pneumonia, blood-stream infections, wound or surgical site infections, and meningitis.

In fact, Heinz has unveiled a stronger version of its white distilled vinegar. Instead of five per cent acetic acid, it has six, which boosts the strength by 20 per cent.

They're calling this new formula ... wait for it ... "cleaning" vinegar!

How does it work?

According to Canada's National Collaborating Centre for Environmental Health, the acid in vinegar crosses the cell membrane of bacteria and prompts a release of protons, which causes the cell to die.

The new Heinz vinegar will smell stronger, but the odour disappears quickly.

Try finding stronger concentrations of vinegar at eco-friendly stores that carry a variety of green cleaning products and have refill stations.

For example, in Vancouver, The Soap Dispensary sells 12 per cent vinegar. Use it for tough cleaning jobs at full strength — like that dog drool coating your car windows — or dilute it with water as needed.

Five ways to clean with vinegar:

1. Fill the rinse-agent dispenser of your dishwasher with plain white vinegar.

2. Combat pit stains on white T-shirts: Soak clothing in about 60 millilitres of white vinegar and enough water to cover the stain. Leave overnight and then wash with eco-friendly laundry soap.

3. Clean rusty tools: Soak in a pail of white vinegar and brush to clean.

4. Deodorize the toilet: Pour 125 millilitres of white vinegar into the

Strong vinegar for a strong clean around your home. ISTOCK IMAGES

Outdoor chores are a great way to work off that Thanksgiving pie

DIY ideas. Tips for projects you can do all around your house

The autumn long weekend is here, and it's a great time to get some things done around your house before the weather gets much colder.

Take inspiration from DIY Network's special The Ultimate Crash where hosts Josh Temple, Matt Muenster and Ahmed Hassan join together to give one house three massive makeovers — house, yard and bath.

House: Get the look of autumn

Window boxes are a popular way to bring colour in the summer months, but they can also be updated in the cooler months to reflect the décor of the season.

You can reflect your own style by creating window boxes that are traditional or modern. Try to use vivid colours that reflect the season like oranges, rusts and red which can be found in gourds, pumpkins, and mums. Leafy textures are also popular and can be incorporated through fountain grass, variegated ivy, ornamental cabbage or black mondo grass.

Take advantage of the many types of pumpkins available now, as well as seasonal branches like bittersweet that can add an extra pop of colour.

Yard: Winterize your lawn

Cooler months are a great time to promote root growth in your lawn, and you will see results in just four easy steps.

First use a spreader to fertilize the lawn, following directions carefully to ensure you use the correct amount. Secondly you must aerate the lawn to provide air for the roots and make holes for planting seeds by taking out spikes of soil.

The third step is to seed the lawn. Be sure to purchase 'cool season' or 'cool weather' grass seed to use at this time of year. Evenly distribute the seed over your lawn. Lastly you need to rake and water. Raking will break up soil clumps and cover the seeds to protect them. Water the lawn with a gentle spray on your garden hose. Continue to keep your lawn moist before the real cold weather begins.

Bath: Tips for a better bathroom

Use free time this weekend to maximize space, light and style in your bathroom for a spa-like experience all winter.

Consider installing indirect lighting behind your bathtub and setting tea lights on the windowsills to set the mood for a relaxing soak that will warm you up this winter.

Depending on the layout of your bathroom, now might be the time to install an additional sink or even an automatic hand-dryer. Both of these can ensure your bathroom is efficient, practical and clutter-free.

FIRST-TIME HOMEBUYERS

Thursday, October 4, 2012

There are plenty of factors to think about — lifestyle, budget, mortgage, etc. — that go into deciding on a first home purchase. iSTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

Build your decision on these tips

ASTRID
VAN DEN BROEK
For Metro

Townhome or detached? City or suburb? There are plenty of factors that go into deciding on a first home purchase. Here's what you need to know.

IT'S ALL ABOUT THE MONEY
This is really where your home search begins — how much can you afford? And a realtor can help you determine this, notes Ron Abraham, president of the Toronto-based Ontario Real Estate Association. "You need to know what you can afford and how not to get in so deep that you end up in financial difficulty," he said.

"So take the advice of a realtor — how much do you make? How many bills do you have? You need to know how much you can realistically afford to buy that dream."

SET REALISTIC EXPECTATIONS

"One of the problems with buyers today is they're used to living at home in their parents' nice four-bedroom, three-bathroom, three-car garage home," Abraham said. "And then they want to start where their parents are today after 30 to 40 years of hard work. They have to get their expectations aligned with what they can afford."

Not sure where to start

Where to get help

Before you meet with prospective real estate agents, click on Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation's site (cmhc-schl.gc.ca).

There are a variety of decision-making tools available to help you make the big purchase including: Checklists to evaluate real estate agents; home inspection checklists; home features checklists; mortgage calculators; home hunting comparison worksheets; and more.

researching? Realtor.ca lists multiple real estate agent affiliated listings coast to coast and allows you to search via price, home features and more.

KNOW YOUR LIFESTYLE

Sit down and think through children? Also, along with knowing what they like, they need to anticipate what their needs will be," Abraham said.

He also suggests considering all factors involved, including home maintenance — do you like doing repairs and maintaining a lawn and garden?

"If not, maybe a condo is for you because condos offer different features. There are advantages and disadvantages for both," he said.

In the end, Abraham advises buyers to take a hard, realistic look at what you want in a home versus what you need in a home.

"Because for homebuyers, quite often those are two different things."

Price depends on where you live

While the size of the home, its proximity to downtown, and the age and quality of materials will all affect the price, the city you buy in will likely dominate other variables.

Metro looked at prices in five cities: Vancouver, Calgary, Toronto, Montreal, and Halifax.

If you want to buy a townhouse in the Greater Montreal area, you can expect to pay about $290,300. In the Greater Toronto area, a townhouse goes for about $324,200. A Calgary townhouse averages $276,600. The Greater Vancouver area will set you back the most — a $462,300 cheque for your first townhouse. According to Royale LePage, an average Halifax townhouse costs about $270,000.

There is a wide range for single-family homes. In Vancouver, you can expect to pay almost $1 million — or $941,900, to be exact. In Calgary, the price is half that, with an average single-family home going for $420,200. In Toronto, that same house will cost you $523,100. In Montreal, you will be paying just $302,300. The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation lists an average Halifax home at $259,060. However, if you are looking for a first-time Halifax home off the peninsula, you can get one for around $230,000.

Statistics. Number of reasons why more single women are deciding to purchase real estate

For Metro

While the statistics are hard to come by, anecdotal evidence suggests more and more single women are buying real estate. In fact, it was this trend that led Royal LePage to release a report on this topic in 2007.

At the centre of the creation of this report was Dianne Usher, a broker with Royal LePage Real Estate Services Ltd. in Toronto.

"I was observing through the realtor community that more and more single women were buying real estate," she said.

Usher said there are a number of reasons why more single women are purchasing real estate.

"Women are waiting longer to get married," she said. "They are having a professional life first and during that time period, we can rent or we can own real estate."

In other words, women aren't necessarily waiting for

Gender divide

- One of the commonly cited statistics regarding single homebuyers is actually an American one. The statistic comes from the National Association of Realtors (NAR), which reports that among first-time and repeat homebuyers, 21 per cent are single females, while just 12 per cent are single males.

Source: The 2011 NAR Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers

a partner to come along to purchase real estate, they are grabbing the bull by the horns and doing it on their own.

Continued low interest rates are also helping fuel the trend as it makes home ownership more affordable.

Economic factors are another reason since purchasing real estate seems to be a more stable investment these days than investing in the money

Statistics show that more single young women are buying real estate. BRAND X PICTURES/THINKSTOCK markets, particularly when considering the sluggish stock market.

Sandra Rinomato, the host of HGTV's Buy Herself, has noticed since she began practising real estate 16 years ago that more single women are purchasing real estate. In fact, her show follows single women as they purchase real estate, whether it be a 20-something professional about to buy her first condo, a newly divorced woman or a widower.

Rinomato says one of the reasons for the trend is that it is now easier for women to get financing. "Thirty years ago, financial institutions were not lending money to women who did not have male co-signers," she says.

Looking specifically at first-time homebuyers, more women appear to be lining up than men to do so.

According to the 19th annual RBC Homeownership Poll, among Canadians who plan to buy a home within the next two years, women (49 per cent) are more likely than men (35 per cent) to be first-time homebuyers.

NHL keeping concerned sponsors in the loop

No end in sight.

League, union meet for fourth time in five days but again talk secondary issues and not core economics

With no end in sight to the NHL lockout, the league is doing all it can to ease the concerns of its sponsors.

A small group of key clients gathered Wednesday afternoon in Toronto for an audience with chief operating officer John Collins, who provided an update on labour negotiations and took questions from participants.

A source indicated that representatives from Molson, Canadian Tire, SportChek, Kraft, Sirius XM and Scotiabank participated in the meeting. One attendee called the session "productive" and applauded

Collins for taking part.

"They were very transparent with us," said the source, who requested anonymity. "I was looking around the room and the long-term, cumulative contract dollars around the table were probably at the $100-million mark. It's a significant chunk of change for the league."

League officials have held a series of conference calls with business partners in recent months in an effort to keep everyone informed.

With the NHL on hold, sponsors have been forced to abandon plans to activate against the league and some have started channelling money into other projects. Typically, campaigns and product launches take months to pull together — posing a problem for league partners given the uncertainty brought on by the lockout.

"We don't know when the end line is," said the source.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sponsorships and growth

Sponsorships played a significant role in the immense growth the league enjoyed after the 2004-05 lockout.

- Twenty-two new partners signed on with the NHL over that period as it geared its calendar around signature events, such as the Winter Classic.

Athletics stun Rangers, win West

The Oakland Athletics captured the AL West with another improbable rally in a season full of them, coming back from four runs down and a 13-game division deficit to stun the two-time defending league champion Texas Rangers 12-5 on Wednesday.

After an off-season of rehab, Andrea Bargnani is keen for a fresh start.

The Raptors' No. 1 draft pick in 2006 was having a career year last season. For a guy with the reputation as being a soft player, his attention to the defensive side of the game under new coach Dwane Casey was dramatic and impressive.

Hockey. OHL ditches rink-side goal judges

Video killed the radio star. And, now, the rink-side goal judge as well.

At the Ontario Hockey League's annual general meeting in August, the board of governors approved a motion to eliminate the role of the rink-side red-light pusher.

A couple of weeks into the 2012-13 season, at London Knights games and elsewhere, fans are beginning to notice the absence of behind-the-net goal judges. The noble duty has been a part of hockey game aesthetics for more than a century.

While these office officials aren't losing a "real" job, with teams hiring goal judges on a volunteer or honorarium basis, it's certainly a change.

A dying breed

- Goal judges were first introduced in 1877.
- They were initially called umpires.
- Only a handful of NHL goal judges remain rink-side.

Dave Longfield, 75, of London has been relieved of his duties as one of two rink-side goal judges at London Knights games. JOHN MATISZ/METRO

You can't go anywhere in the building without somebody asking you, 'How come you're not down there goal judging?'" said Dave Longfield, a judge at Knights games from 2000-11.

WEST DIVISION

Horoscopes*Aries*March 21 - April 20

Try not to make up your mind too quickly about someone today. It does not matter if your initial impressions are good or bad. Either way, they are going to be an important and positive force in your life.

Taurus*April 21 - May 21

Keep emotions out of what you have to do today. If you allow your feelings to get in the way of common sense, you could make a serious mistake — the kind that costs you money you cannot afford to lose.

Gemini*May 22 - June 21

The message of the stars for you today is quite straightforward: Don't take your luck for granted. Both in your personal life and in your career you will need to work hard to get ahead — and harder still to stay there.

Cancer*June 22 - July 23

You are reading too much into a situation that most times you would simply ignore. You may find it hard to convince yourself that you are overreacting but you really do need to keep things in perspective.

Leo*July 24 - Aug. 23

Today's cosmic alignment warns if you let slip personal information of any kind, it could backfire on you later in the month. Keep what you know to yourself, especially when it is potentially embarrassing.

Virgo*Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Don't worry if your confidence is at a low ebb because that will change very soon. What also needs to change is the way you approach your work. Are you taking too much for granted? Give it some thought.

Libra*Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You may be tempted to make a decision concerning your future today but with Jupiter now entering one of its retrograde phases, it might be best to put it off to a later date.

Scorpio*Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Money and investment issues may be causing you a bit of concern but there is probably not much you can do about them at the moment. Trust that everything will turn out right in the end. It usually does.

Sagittarius*Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Partnerships and relationships have been under good stars of late and that trend is set to continue but that does not mean you no longer have to work at them. What can you do today to improve your affairs?

Capricorn*Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Attitude is everything. If you think you can succeed, you most likely will. If you think you may fail, you will subconsciously make it happen. Keep believing and keep trying — and you'll keep winning.

Aquarius*Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Your confidence may be high, and with good reason, but don't let it carry you away to some fabulous la-la land where everything happened as if by magic. Be positive but keep your feet on the ground, too.

Pisces*Feb. 20 - March 20

Try not to dwell on thoughts that upset you. Focus on areas you can feel happy about and pretend the bad stuff does not exist. You are very sensitive to your environment, which is why you may need to move.
